M.Y BUNKERS A NEW WAY FORWARD

M.Y BUNKERS is pleased to announce the expansion of its operation in Malta, with the addition of further trucks and trailers. They can now offer a service of up to 150 metric tonnes of marine gas oil, ex-wharf alongside with a continuous uninterrupted supply.

Available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, their truck depot is situated within 1km of the loading terminal which enables quick and efficient loading and reloading. With standard DMA 0.1 sulphur and 0.86 density products available, their dedicated sales team for the Malta operation specialises in the dynamics of this busy Mediterranean port and in some instances deliveries can commence within 1-2 hours of nomination as the trucks are always fully loaded and on standby.

The new service offers a great alternative to owners who may be fed up with delays caused by the weather when delivering at anchor. In order to overcome such delays and make life simpler for owners, M.Y Bunkers offers an all-inclusive calling package based on the GT and LOA of the vessel in order to bring her in to port and supply ex-wharf.

Ian Larke, General Manager of M.Y Bunkers Ltd told Yachting Pages Media Group that " I am delighted to be working with Yachting Pages during this time of growth for M.Y Bunkers. The additional trucks and trailers we now have ensure we can provide a continuous uninterrupted supply and the support we receive from the media group makes sure customers realise the level of service we can provide them. Over the years we have developed a quality reputation for the supply of marine gas oil to private and commercial vessels in Malta, and this expansion of the fleet should only serve to improve yet further our standing in the market place."

M.Y Bunkers' goal remains to exceed the expectations by offering a first class tailor made service to suit the clients exacting requirements.
